Welcome Khlees!

By Karin Bartow

They were farmers in rural Cambodia. They spent three years in a refugee camp in Thailand, several weeks in the crowded city of Bangkok. In August, the Khlee family settled in Cohasset, at 13 Hill Street.

Mr. Vath Khlee, a farmer, his wife Chabeh, their children Vanny, 4 months (girl), Phally, 3 (girl), Phalla, 5 (girl), Bunny, 7 (boy), Et, 8 (girl), and Chien, 9 (boy), are glad to have finished the long ordeal of refugee life and the immigration process to a free country.

The South Shore Baptist Church in Hingham has made their move possible and will "support them until they can support themselves," said Mrs. Carol Zimmerman, a church member who spoke about Cohasset's newest family.

The Baptist Church voted unanimously to sponsor a Cambodian refugee family in order to help carry the burden of the Asia refugees who so badly need assistance. The Church was paired with the Khlee's by World Relief, the International Relief and Development arm of the National Association of Evangelistics.

Once sponsors and families are accepted and matched, World Relief moves quickly ahead to get families moved to their new homeland.

The Church leased an apartment for the Khlee's, fixed it up, and gathered donations of clothing and furnishings. The family will benefit from programs available to teach refugees English and will be assisted and supported morally by other Cambodian and Vietnamese families already successfully located in the Boston area.

Mrs. Zimmerman quietly explains that "the Church members will be looking out for them, standing by them; we will love them gently until they can take care of themselves." She says that while "They are going to need acceptance and kindness from the community, they will need some protection at first. They're shy people, and coming into this situation, we will try to see that they are not overwhelmed." She added, "they are a family of integrity, so we will be careful not to be patronizing."

All of Cohasset welcomes the Khlee's!
